The U.S. Drought Monitor is produced through a partnership between the National Drought Mitigation Center at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, the United States Department of Agriculture, and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Welcome! If you grow forage for livestock and have recently gone through drought, this website can help you find out whether you qualify for assistance. Qualifying for assistance is based on the U.S. Drought Monitor and on your county's designated grazing periods. To use this tool, you will need to know your county's grazing period. If you are not sure what it is, please consult your local Farm Service Agency representative.

2014 Farm Bill Criteria

The FSA Eligibility Tool does not guarantee any financial aid. It simply estimates which U.S. counties meet the criteria, based on the U.S. Drought Monitor. Eligibility will be confirmed by the FSA once the signup period has begun. Please contact your local FSA agent for more details and to verify eligibility after the start of the signup period.

To read about the Livestock Forage Disaster Program, please refer to the FSA factsheet: 2014 version | 2008 version

To learn more about the U.S. Drought Monitor, please visit the web site.

To apply for assistance, please contact your local FSA office.
